BETHLEHEM

By Richard A. Bergdoll
(Pastor Memorial Methodist Church)

Long before the Nativity, many events of enduring importance and influence occurred in Bethlehem. Rachael, wife of Israel's pioneer patriarch, Jacob, was buried there; and she influence of this mother of Israel's tribal chieftans, Benjamin and Joseph, has made the soil of this little Judean village sacred. The spirit of her who gave birth to Joseph destined to be the preserver of the lives of his brothers surely hovered about the Virgin Mary on the holy night when the Saviour was born.

Jonathan, of the priestly Levites, was born in Bethlehem of Judea, and mighty, spiritual forces for the building of a strong and God-fearing people emanated from his residence there.

Bethlehem furnished the enchanting, pastoral scene, and the heart-stirring events for one of the most beautiful and fascinating love stories of the Old Testament. Here lived Elimeiech and Naomi with their two sons, the family which furnished the lovely Bible story for the Book of Ruth. It was to her native Bethlehem that Naomi returned from the land of Moab with her daughter-in-law, Ruth, having been bereft of her husband and sons. The story climaxes with Grandmother Naomi holding her little grandson Obed tightly to her bosom, and placing him in the swiftly flowing stream of God's fulfillment of His Providence for His people.

Years, passed, and Obed married to establish his own home in Bethlehem, where Jesse, his son, was born. It was Jesse who became the father of Israel's King David, later to be annointed the second king of his people. So it is that Bethlehem came to be known as the City of David. Bethlehem was ever near to David's heart, and during his years of wandering he would cry out for a drink from the wells of his home town.

In David's time, the Philistines would crash the walls of little Bethlehem, to occupy it as a place to pan embarkements in the surrounding territory. But, fitfully, the prowess of young David wrested the town from the enemy and secured it to the people of God. The sweet singer of Israel mentions, in one of his Psalms that definite word of the movement of the Ark of God came to him while musing on the memories of his native Bethlehem; and it can be believed that he caught his inspiration there for the final placing of the Ark in Jerusalem there to await the completion of Solomon's Temple.

The next Biblical information about the Judean village tells of an incident which took place following the establishment of the Southern Kingdom of Judah under King Rehoboam, when a garrison from the king's court came there to strengthen and fortify it.

Approximately six centuries before Christ was born, Micah prophesied that Bethlehem would be the place of His birth. Then as we close the pages of the Old Testament, our eyes fall on the last reference to Bethlehem, and discover the record of 123 persons returning from the Persian capitivty to resettle their native town. Can we not surmise that they read often, as they labored to rebuild Bethlehem, the prophetic words of Micah?

Then when we open the New Testament, and read the announcement of the angel of the Lord to the shepherds of a child born to them in the City of David, we can understand why they said one to another, "Let us go even unto Bethlehem."

Poetry is simply the most beautiful, impressive and widely effective mode of saying things.
—Matthew Arnold.

Homemakers Items

When you're selecting toys for the children's, Christmas keep the safety factor in mind, says the Virginia Rural Safety Council.

For small children, two and under, toys should be simple, small, soft, and washable. Stuffed animals, blocks, push and pull toys which meet these requirements are good selections.

As the child grows older he will like larger stuffed animals. Brightly colored books, beads for stringing, wood blocks, are popular with the two-to-three-year-old. Because children want to imitate adults in their world, housekeeping equipment, trucks, and costumes are gdoo selections.

For the four-to-six-year-old, consider paints, crayons, clay, construction sets, mechanical toys, books, sports equipment, and pedal cars. The six-to-eight-year-old will enjoy craft and hobby equipment, puzzles, games, electric trains, and gym equipment.

Before buying a toy, examine its shape and construction to be sure it will not cut or otherwise injure the child. Be sure there are no slender parts which could be inserted in the nose, ear, or mouth. Safe toys should be made of materials which will not break into sharp jagged edges. Electrical toys should bear the Underwriter's Laboratory label of approval. Do not buy toys made of flammable materials, and avoid toys with small detachable parts which could be swallowed.

About The Home

By Frances Dell

During the coming Christmas season you will probably have more people drop by in the afternoon for a visit. It is a time when friends naturally get together. You will want to be prepared to offer your friend something unusual and delicious in the way of food and drink.

Why not take up the custom popular in many parts of the world and have a cup of hot tea? Just any tea will do, but it will be much more fun to have on hand a supply of unusual teas.

The rarest teas that money can buy can be yours for no more than a few pennies a pot.

Exquisitely fragrant Jesmine tea, which contains the blossoms of the jasmine plant to impart flavor and fragrance, will make a hit with your guests. The tea in this mixture is delicate Formosa Oolong.

SOIL TESTS FOR TOBACCO POINT UP LIMING ERRORS

Many toacco growers would profit by making light applications of lime, while others are planting tobacco on land that has been limed too heavily.

This fact was pointed up, report agronomists at VPI, by a summary of soil tests from eight flue-cured tobacco counties and four fire-cured counties. The easiest way to tell which side of the fence you are on is to have a soil test made.

The agronomists say that when the pH is below 5.0, phosphorus and certain other elements may be less available than when the range is from 5.4 to 5.7 — the desirable range for flue-cured tobacco. An adequate supply of readily available phosphorus is necessary for good root development and early plant growth. The soil test will help determine the amount of lime to apply to raise the pH to the desired level.

When too much lime is used, a condition favorable for the development of certain root rot diseases is created, Tobacco crops grown on land with a high pH are often irregular, low in yield, and poor in quality.

Taking a soil test is especially important for growers who are making low yields of poor quality tobacco, who are trying to lengthen their rotation, and who plan to use land that may be high in organic matter.

HOG PRODUCERS WARNED TO AVOID TOO HEAVY PRODUCTION IN 1958

"Hog producers may have become too optimistic during a period of steadily rising prices," agricultural economists at VPI fear.

Hog prices have been fairly good this year — probably because of a decrease in supply rather than any unusual help from the consumers. The fall of 1957 pig crops seems to be about 4% above a year ago. This expected increase, if it materializes (and several things indicate it will), probably will not be enough to "break the market" as in late 1955. But it is not likely that prices at the end of 1957 and the beginnings of 1958 will be as high as a year earlier, the economists say. And if producers expand production to a sizeable extent, they could be in trouble again toward the end of 1958. Under any circumstances the prices are not likely to maintain a high level through the second half of next year. Hogs farrowed and marketed early will have some advantage over late pigs.

The economists say pork has failed to hold its place in the market basket. Since the relaxation of wartime price controls, the percentage of the consumer's food dollar spent for pork has decreased — down to less than 2 % from a post-war peak of 3 %. Beef has held its own during this period and poultry has greatly increased its "take."

Perhaps much of the tendency of the consumer to ignore pork is caused by the tendency of the pork producer to ignore the type of product the consumer wants. In the "battle of the bulge," fat is the enemy. It would seem, the economists say, that a rapid shift to the meat-type hog is not only desirable but necessary to compete in today's market.

TV Viewers Should Know Code for Television Safety

CHICAGO—TV sets now are a part of over 40 million U. S. homes.

This rapid growth in numbers—mostly during the past decade—underscores the need for increased attention to television safety, the National Board of Fire Underwriters says.

Taking the following precautions will mean greater safety for TV families:

1. Call a competent repairman if your set needs fixing. TV sets contain high voltage and are too complex for amateur "tinkering."

Unskilled handling can result in severe shock.

2. See that the ventilating holes in your set are clear and open. This air space is necessary because TV sets generate considerable heat which accumulates dangerously when ventilation is cut off. It may be dangerous, for instance, to install your set in a tight cubicle unless it was especially manufactured for such installations.

3. If you have an outside aerial, it may increase the danger of lightning striking your home. Therefore, you should have a UL-listed lightning arrestor. The arrestor is inexpensive and usually is included in the installation of your set by a competent TV serviceman. Make certain it is part of your set.

4. When buying a television set, check to make sure that it has been listed by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., a non-profit organization which tests products for safety.

Diapers Are Not Cause of Rash

CHICAGO—In spite of its name, diaper rash is not usually caused by diapers. Diaper rash is a general term for several types of skin eruptions in the "diaper region."

The commonest cause of a rash is the formation of ammonia by bacteria after urea is broken down. Other eruptions may be prickly heat, thrush, chafing, allergy, and various types of dermatitis.

All of these rashes are aggravated by lack of cleanliness and softening of the skin, which may occur if it remains moist too long. The best preventive for diaper rash is changing the diaper as soon as possible after it becomes wet or soiled. This prevents softening of the skin and the formation of ammonia.

Since plastic or rubber pants increase the likelihood of ammonia formation, their use should be limited to those brief social occasions when prompt changing would be inconvenient.

Studies have shown that commercial laundering of diapers is much more effective than home laundering in removing and stopping the growth of ammonia-forming bacteria.

World Is Much Changed Since Last Big War

WASHINGTON—The world has gained 25 independent nations and more than 500 million people since the start of World War II, the National Geographic Society reports.

This gives the world a total of 103 "states," and a population rapidly approaching the three billion mark. Asia had the lion's share of the increase in population. All but six of the new states are in Asia.

One state—the Saar—lived and died within a span of 10 years, from 1945 to 1957, when it joined West Germany.

The two newest states are Ghana, formerly known as the Gold Coast, and the Federation of Malaya, which joined the family of independent nations on August 31.

The 25 new states have about half of the world's population. Perhaps their most urgent single problem is how to raise living standards among ever-increasing masses that must be fed and clothed.

Diabetic Life Span Greatly Increased

NEW YORK—Since the introduction of insulin treatment 35 years ago, the expectation of life of persons with diabetes has increased greatly.

Only in fairly recent years, for the first time in medical history, have diabetics whose disease began in early childhood attained age 45. Prior to the introduction of insulin therapy, the disease was quickly fatal to children.

How We See

The retina of each eye has about 130,000 cells or dots. To print this number of dots would require a piece of paper 10 feet long and 9 feet wide. However this number of cells is packed together in a small space at the back of the eye. The retina is the "screen" on which is reflected the images we perceive.

..COMMENT ON SPORTS

By Pete Fritchie

Washington.- The Hot - Stove League is off and running with the Tiger-Athletics thirteen player swap. It looks like Johnny McHale pulled a Frank Laine for the Bengals just when Frankie was trying to go into action.

In short, the Tigers stand to profit more from the trade than the Athletics. Big Gus Zernial is what the Tigers need to go with their tight pitching. He can break up the game with one swing. Billy Martin is the fire-eater manager Jack Tighe missed so badly last summer.

Tighe felt his players were letting him down at one time but the truth was that the Tigers were not scored on to his firebrand standards. Former manager Bucky Harris took things pretty easy, and played the percentages a hundred per cent. With fire and some long distance power the Tigers should be better.

We don't see any other great help for the Detroiters in the deal, say in the pitching department, for instance. The Athletics got a nifty catcher in Bill Tuttle and a good catcher in Frank House. In Duke Maas they might have obtained a great, coming pitcher. That is up to Maas and those over him.

The Tigers must have hated to see Maas go, even more than House or Tuttle, for when he was right he was hard to beat.

The five players mentioned are the key players in the deal, as viewed from here. Since Lane of the Cleveland Indians has plenty of catchers, and is willing to trade them, it could be that Detroit beat Cleveland to the deal.

Now the Tigers are to send Harvey Kuenn to pasture. Kuenn has been a disappointment to shrewd baseball men in recent years and he could be traded if he doesn't show some greatness. He hits into double plays when he should be powering the ball, with his power.

If he stays with Detroit the Tigers will have Kaline, Kuenn and Maxwell in the outfield — a strong threesome, with Billy Martin in the infield and Gus Zernial crowding someone for a regular spot, or displacing someone.

IN FASHION NOW

The gay and exciting Christmas season is almost here. There are always more parties and more people to meet during this time than any other during the year.

For this reason, women give a great deal of thought to their clothes and grooming. Since grooming must come first, why not a breakdown of the latest and most effective way to look bright-eyed and charming, make-up wise, for the coming events?

The first step is to apply rouge to a clean face which has had a going-over with a good skin refresher. Apply rouge to the cheekbone and blend. No matter the shape of your face, the latest is to always apply rouge on the cheekbone. Makeup base comes next.

The base should be stippled over face and neck, then blended. Remove excess with tissue. Strive for a transparent film, not a mask. If there are dark circles or freckles you wish to hide, apply a bit of cover stick - after powdering.

If more rouge is needed at this point, blend a bit with your powder base on the palm of your hand and make the necessary correction.

Next, use powder freely to face and neck. Brush away excess with a soft baby brush. Blot, make-up with a damp towel to set it.

Apply eye shadow from lash roots to corner of lid if desired. With a soft eyebrow pencil, draw a line at lash roots and smudge lengthy with finger.

Use two sharp eyebrow pencils, one brown (with no red in it) and one black to dub in brows. Arch brows with hair-like strokes.

Mascara should be applied on the top as well as the bottom lashes. They will appear more luxuriant.

Use a lipstick brush to outline lips. Fill in with color.

This may take a little more time than you are accustomed to, but the look of approval in his eyes will be worth it.
